

ABSTRACT

A covered food storage container having a food cutting board surface therein, includes a food storage container defining an open top and a cover unit including a cover, configured and dimensioned to close the open top, and a food cutting board surface, removably secured to the cover for movement therewith as a unit. The cover unit is movable between a covering orientation wherein the cutting board surface is disposed entirely within the covered container, and a cutting board orientation enabling cutting on the cutting board surface.

10